ADVANCED ENGLISH PROGRAM

About ING 112 Exemption

Students who start their undergraduate programs in their faculties need to complete 6 credits of English lessons. There are 3 different Advanced English courses, ING 112, ING 103 and ING 201, and each course carries 3 credits.

Students who pass the Proficiency Exam with less than 85 points have to take ING 112 in their first faculty year. In order to fulfill 6 credits of English, they subsequently need to take ING 201 in the second term/year, which can be scheduled differently by their faculties and/or departments.

For students who pass the Proficiency Exam with more than 85 points, they are exempt from ING 112 and they only take ING 201 in the next term/year.

ING 112 exemption is applied only once at the term students start their undergraduate education. The Proficiency Exam scores received later are not valid for ING 112 exemption procedure.
